

The UKCNRC supports and delivers research into children's brain, nerve and muscle diseases across the UK.

We provide support and help to doctors and other professionals trying to improve the care of children with neurological conditions.

We link together the Children's Hospitals caring for children with neurological disease across the UK, so that coordinated research can be provided across the whole country.

This combined and coordinated approach is essential to improve the understanding and treatment of these often rare and neglected diseases.

UK Children's Neurological
Research Campaign

Because UK Children's Neurological Research Campaign is providing generic support applicable to a wide range of research projects, very substantial results can be achieved with modest sums, when compared to many other areas of research funding.

The generosity of individual donors, companies, and community groups makes it possible for UKCNRC to tackle the needs of children today and lead the way to tomorrow's cures.

The Roald Dahl Marvellous Children's Charity is delighted to support UKCNRC

Help children like Reuben

His vision is also badly affected by brain damage (which has caused the epilepsy). Reuben has also been diagnosed with Autism.

Many other children are likewise affected by rare neurological conditions, and we would like to try to help to raise awareness of the need to raise funds for this vital research.

Our son, Reuben, has a rare condition called West Syndrome which is a form of epilepsy.

As Reuben has grown older, it has become more apparent how his epilepsy is, and will in the future, affect him. The condition affects every part of his development, for example his speech is very limited. He can say about half a dozen words since birth. His developmental age is about 18 months.

Reuben is one of many thousands of children throughout the UK who are diagnosed with rare neurological disorders every year, please help us today by making a gift for their future.
